the need

product Fragrances

With sales representatives visiting large stores and retailers across the country and rarely back at head office, L'Oréal Fragrances needed a way of making sure the team was always equipped with up to date collateral. They needed a digital solution that would cut down on costly re-prints, whilst maintaining a professional and visually impressive feel synonymous with luxury fragrances. It had to be:

- Quick to update and deploy content from head office to all end users
- A cost effective digital alternative to bulky, printed brochures and resources
- Easy for field sales representatives to use on a mobile device
- A visually engaging solution that could showcase beautiful products

the impact

iPresent means our sales team now delivers a sleek all-round showcase of our launches using media, videos, press coverage and key information all packaged and stored on one easily portable device.
